Assumed weekend: Saturday and Sunday, plus the listed public holidays. This is a planning assumption, not a universal legal workweek. Employer schedules may differ.

Statutory framework; future annual arrangements pending

Awaiting Confirmation · Scope: planning · Checked 2026-10-01

The 2027 official annual arrangement was not located as of 1 October 2026. Only supported statutory core dates are shown. The shared long-weekend planner assumes a regular weekend and cannot subtract officially adjusted working weekends. Its calculated breaks are illustrative, not the official China work calendar. For 2026, January 4, February 14 and 28, May 9, September 20 and October 10 are WORKING DAYS. In particular, the official New Year break ends January 3, not January 4; the Spring Festival break starts February 15, not February 14. None of these six working dates is stored as a holiday. Calendar/ICS downloads contain only listed holiday or closure dates; they do not encode working-day overrides. PDF sources and page notes explain the adjustments.
